

Focke Wulf Fw190A

Germany's Focke-Wulf Fw 190 ranks as one of the most outstanding combat aircraft produced during the Second World War. The prototype flew in June 1939 and early production Fw 190A-1s reached French based units in the Autumn of 1941. Fw 190A-8 performance, maximum speed 401 m.p.h. at 18,045 ft, service ceiling 33,800ft, range 197 miles at 298 m.p.h. Engine, one 1,700 h.p. BMW 801D-2 radial.

Very successful in the defensive role against invading forces, the Fw190 was most effective early in the war in the A-8 fighter version as flown by many of Germany's top pilots. Decals are included for a Fw190 flown by one of Germany's highest scoring aces, Major Heinz Bar.
