

American Trans Air started operations in 1981 and has grown steadily since. It is now operating scheduled flights in addition to its normal charter work. A large fleet of 727s, 757s, and L-1011s is used. The 727 fleet now consists solely of 727-200s, but 727-100s were flown in this scheme until recently. The upper fuselage is white, with the lower fuselage and engine nacelles are light grey, similar to BAC 707 grey. The upper and lower parts of the fin are insignia blue (F.S. 15042). Wings and horizontal stabilizers are in the standard finish.
