

Light tank T-70 was designed in 1944 instead of light tank T-60. The mass production began since 1942. In September 1942 the German High Command decided to produce a new tank, the standard which for reconnaissance and observation. Production ceased in autumn 1943. During this period 8228 tanks T-70 and T-70 M more released at the Gorki, Sverdlovsk and Kiev plants.
 Tank T-70 was widely applied at all sectors of Soviet-German fronts as a line tank up to the middle of 1944 and as a reconnaissance tank of the light self-propelled artillery ap to the end of the war.
 Besides the Red Army, Polish Army and Czechoslovak corps was used 1942-1943. T-70 and T-70M total made about half of tanks pack of the Army.
 In German Army the captured tanks T-70M were applied as line tanks and with the Germanized turret as artillery tractors.

Легкий танк Т-70 был разработан осенью 1941 г. в ИС Горьковского Автозавода под руководством И.А. Аврамова для замены танка Т-60. В сентябре 1942 г. командование приняло решение о создании нового танка, стандарт которого был разработан в сентябре 1942 г. Производство танков Т-70 М с усиленной ходовой частью, замененным лопком механизмов-подвески и другими совершенствовало до осени 1943 г. В этот период было выпущено 8228 танков Т-70 и Т-70М. Танки Т-70 широко применялись на всех участках Советско-Германского фронта до середины 1944 г. и в качестве танков разведки артиллерии.
 Кроме того, танки Т-70 и Т-70М составляли около половины танкового парка Красной Армии. Многие танки Т-70М применялись как линейные и с доработанной башней как артиллерийские тракторы.
