

Messerschmitt Me 410 B-2/U4

The Messerschmitt Me 410 B-2/U4 was a Ground Attack/Zestorer version of the Me 410 multi-roll aircraft, though there were various Zestorer versions of this aircraft, the B-2/U4 was very heavily armed. It carried two MK 103 30mm cannon and a BK5 50mm cannon in the bomb bay. This version had the lower nose glazing plated over and the upper window was often painted over to prevent the pilot having his vision impaired by gun flash from these guns, the blast channels were vertical on these guns to avoid damage to the props. The Russians captured at least a couple of the B-2/U4 version.

The conversion contains new bomb bay panel, nose, gun sight and two MK 103 and 1 BK5 brass barrels.
